OPINION: CORONAVIRUS MAKES GREED?

As China Lifts Off Quarantine, It Realizes It Has Less Customers

It is a fact that the COVID-19 disease started in China. It is also a fact that they locked down entire cities. But, as the quarantine is ending in China, the other countries are just getting started (well, not really)!

This leads to the point: China will have no customers! Will that mean that China will open up the borders? So when more people come from other countries, China might have a wave 2!

It is up for China to decide: to live a few seasons with no customers and stay safe, or invite costumers and risk it!

NEW ZEALAND POLICE CALLED FOR BURGERS

After The Restrictions Got Lowered, Burger Consumption Flew

New Zealand just entered Level 3 lockdown, after four weeks of Level 4, lockdown, which means kids could start going to school. This also means that more restaurants will open, including some fast food restaurants.

When the lockdown was lifted, people ran to get burgers. In one restaurant, the police were called because of so much people (imagine if one of them had the coronavirus).

At least now New Zealand is happy!
